EIGHT PAGES.

Japan has decided to build its own navy, and will probably do the work well.

Spain's bills for medicine in Cuba is said to be troubling her, but the insurgents are reducing them.

If Coxe's vote should not be counted at the approaching election in Ohio, what becomes of his returns for the Governorship?

The St. James Gazette wants to know "what the blessed Monroe Doctrine is?" When it actually finds out it will probably describe it.

The Baltimore American says "people get more money for less work in this country than anywhere else in the world."

The English press seems disposed to ridicule the Monroe Doctrine. But England may soon learn that it is no laughing matter.

The Cuban flag was raised over the City Hall at Key West, Fla., yesterday in honor of the first attempt of Cuba to secure her liberty.

A company producing only one form of one part of a bicycle, the jointless rim, covers two acres of ground with its works at Birmingham, Eng.

The New Orleans Picayune is wondering if the new woman will be gentleman enough to take off her hat at the theatre, as do the other fellows.

Since Alderman McCarthy gouged out the eye of another statesman in Chicago he has had no trouble in catching the eye of the president of the Council when that body is in session.

One of the most fashionable churches in New York City announces every Saturday in the newspapers that "the entire service, including the sermon, is limited to one hour."

It is said that Secretary Olney contemplates sending a confidential agent to Cuba to get at the true condition of affairs on the island, and it is the only way to do the business.

It is said that Savannah is demanding fenders to be attached to the trolley cars of that city. No need of the kind is felt in Norfolk, but all the same, as a matter of precaution, we have 'em.

Ex-President Benjamin Harrison seems to be the most eager and restless of the lot. He flits back and forth from his home to New York carrying his grandfather's hat in a Saratoga trunk.

"When does the last mail close for Boston?" asked a lady at a suburban postoffice in the middle of the afternoon. "It's just gone," answered the attendant, "but there's another at 6."

A Spanish officer in a Havana cafe not long since said: "We will parade Spanish troops in Central Park, New York, before we are through with this business." If they do Uncle Sam will know it.

The Alexandria Gazette says personal liberty was the cause of the Democratic success in Indianapolis yesterday. The same question is involved in the New York election. It is hoped and believed that a like cause may produce the same effect there.

Was ever a people so visited as are the Cubans? remarks the Baltimore Herald. In addition to Spanish misrule and the ravages of a revolutionary war, the island is being devastated by cyclone and flood, which have destroyed an immense amount of property. Under happier auspices the Pearl of the Antilles ought to be a garden spot on the globe.

A story is told by the New York Mail and Express that "Minister Denby told the American missionaries in China some time since when they appealed to him for protection, that he had urged the matter on the Washington authorities and that they refused to give him any support whatever." The man who is foolish enough to believe this story ought to go and drown himself.

THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

Every Democrat in Norfolk will have an opportunity Monday evening of expressing his preference and choice in the nomination of candidates for the House of Delegates under the protection of a legalized primary. Four gentlemen have offered themselves for the suffrage of the Democrats of Norfolk—the Hon. Merritt T. Cooke, Major W. E. Foster, Chas. G. Kizer and Chas. W. B. Lane. There can be no excuse for dissatisfaction as to the result of the primary, for every Democratic voter in the city is afforded full facility for participating in the selection of the ticket.

The Virginian urges upon the Democracy of Norfolk to participate in the primary. Let them give expression of their opinion in the exercise of their suffrage. It is a high prerogative and should be availed of. The race is an open one, a fair one, and a full turnout of the Democratic voters will lead to a thorough restoration of harmony in the ranks and unquestioned victory in the November contest.

GOOD ADVICE.

The Washington Post in a spirit of kindness admonishes its Republican friends not "to attempt to make capital" out of the pension business.

It tells them that the Government is now paying more money directly to the pensioners than at any period of the country's history, and quotes the following from the Chicago Tribune:

"The sum paid out for pensions last year was 29 per cent. of the total Government expenditures. Ten years ago the pensioners got only 18 per cent. of the appropriations, or $56,000,000. The country certainly has not failed to recognize the services of the veterans."

Taking this to be a fact it appears that the advice of The Post is altogether proper, and the Republican friends will find it to their interest not to attempt to make capital out of the pension business. However, if they do the Democrats will be ready to meet them and when they get through with the discussion they will be altogether wiser and sadder men.

IT PAYS TO BE STRAIGHTFORWARD.

The frank, manly, and open way will succeed in politics, remarks the Staunton News, as in everything else, and it is right. The man who is frank in his dealings with his fellow-men rarely fails in whatever he attempts. Even if he has made a mistake, the love of the American people for straightforwardness is such that he will be met half way, and adjustment made less difficult. But why shouldn't a man be as honest and frank in politics as in other relations of life?

The one not less important in its bearing than the other, and it is not infrequent that it is more so. Deception in all cases are hurtful and sometimes far-reaching in its results, and it is so in politics as in anything else.

Our contemporary says an illustration of how frank and manly dealing in politics pays is found in the Tenth Congressional district of Georgia:

"Major J. C. C. Black, Democrat, defeated last fall the well-known Populist, Thomas E. Watson. The latter charged fraud, and there really was some fraud practiced. Major Black immediately resigned, and proposed to run the election over, which was done, and at the election last Thursday Black was victorious by about 2,000 majority."

Both of these candidates were for free silver, but the people of the district who admire a straightforward man applauded Mr. Black's course and his reward is his election.

OUIDA AND THE NEW WOMAN.

Without any intention of commending Ouida as a teacher of morals, it is not out of place to endorse what that author has to say about the dress and manner of the new woman. Her treatment of these questions is, to say the least, interesting, and will command attention wherever published. Hear what she has to say:

"There have been few periods in which woman's attire has been so ugly, so disfiguring, and so preposterous as it is in this year of grace. At a period when, in newspaper and pamphlet, platform and in dining-room, and in the various clubs she has consecrated to herself, woman is clamoring for her recognition as a being superior to man. She cannot clothe herself with common sense, she cannot resist the dictates of tailors and the example of princesses; she cannot resist the squaw-like preference for animal skins, and slaughtered birds, and tufts torn out of the living and bleeding creatures; she cannot show to any advantage the natural lines of her form, but disguises them as grotesquely as mantua-makers bid her to do. She cannot go into the country without making herself a caricature of man in coat, and waistcoat, and gaiters; she apes all his absurdities; she imitates all his cruelties and follies; she wears his ugly pot hats, his silly, stiff collars, she copies his insane club life; and then tells us that this parody, incapable of initiative, bare of taste, and destitute of common sense, is worthy to be enthroned as the supreme teacher of the world."

PERSONALS.

Sir Joseph Lister, the great surgeon, is the new president of the British Association, which will meet next year at Liverpool.

The Queen of the Netherlands is now 16 years old, and in honor of the event has abandoned a piffal for the costume of the young woman.

Creston Clarke will shortly appear in London in "The Rivals," in which he will play Don Xerxes, a part once among the best in his father's repertoire.

Dr. Theodore R. Trimby, the inventor of the American turbine wheel and many other important mechanical devices, is yet living. He is 83 years old and resides in Chicago.

One of Senator Voorhees' sons is a sculptor and has been paid $5,000 for a bust of Vice-President Richard Johnson for the Senate chamber. Cramp, the ship-builder, has also given him an order.

Dr. James Stuart Ayres, of Chicago, said to be the oldest practicing homoeopathic physician in the United States, has just celebrated his golden wedding. He traces his ancestry to the royal house of Stuart.

Laurence Alma Tadema, the author of "The Crucifix" and "King David," is the eldest daughter of the celebrated painter. She is of tall and agile figure, with black hair, olive complexion, and luminous dark eyes.

The oldest naval officer of high rank is probably the Russian admiral Count Loris Davidoff. Ten years ago he was still a by no means unfamiliar figure in St. Petersburg society. Now he is ninety-eight. If he lives till the coronation of Nicholas II, he will become the possessor of a unique set of decorations.

NOTES AND OPINIONS.

The production of borax in 1891 was 14,090,139 pounds, valued at $974,445.

Uncle Sam has expended during the present year $13,182,134 on new ships for his navy.

A Hungarian, named Von Milos, has started on a swim from Vienna to the mouth of the Danube.

Senefelder's discovery of lithography in 1796 is to be celebrated by a great exhibition of lithographs in Paris next year.

It is estimated that the commerce of the Great Lakes this year will exceed 5,000,000 tons, of a value of over $400,000,000.

A Vienna professor declares that smokers are less liable to diphtheria and other throat diseases than non-smokers in the ratio of 1 to 28.

"Are abbreviations proper?" asked the young woman. "It depends," replied the mother, "on which you have reference to the English language or a bicycle costume."

Counsel for the defendant (sarcastically)—You're a nice fellow, aren't you? Witness for the plaintiff (cordially)—I am, sir; and if I were not on my oath I'd say the same of you.

In Paris there is a regularly organized company of female blacklegs, who wear a demure uniform almost as plain as that of a nun. They go about their business very methodically, and it is said are quite as skillful as the boys.

"One, Two, Three."

It was an old, old, old, old lady
And a boy who was half past three,
And the way they played together
Was beautiful to see.

She couldn't go running and jumping,
And the boy, no more could he,
For he was a tiny, little fellow,
With a thin, little, twisted knee.

They sat in the yellow sunlight,
Out under the maple tree,
And the game that they played I'll tell you
Just as it was told to me.

It was hide and go seek they were playing,
Though you'd never have known it to be,
With an old, old, old, old lady
And a boy with a twisted knee.

The boy would bend his face down
On his knee and find the right place,
And he'd guess where she was hiding
In guesses One, Two, Three!

"You are in the china closet!"
He would cry and laugh with glee,
It wasn't the china closet,
But he still had Two and Three.

"You are up in papa's big bedroom
In the chest with the queer old key!"
And she said, "You are warm and warm,
But you're not quite right," said she.

"It can't be the little cupboard,
Where mamma's things used to be,
So it must be the clothespress, gran'ma,"
And he found her with his Three.

Then she covered her face with her fingers—
They were wrinkled and white and wee—
And she guessed where the boy was hiding
With a One and a Two and a Three.

And they never had stirred from their place
Right under the maple tree—
This old, old, old, old lady,
And the boy with the lame little knee.

This dear, dear, dear old lady
And the boy who was half past three,

are by no means those who spend the most extravagant prices for the clothes they wear. With the approval of the people we've established new and very much lower prices for Clothing. You can't go anywhere within a hundred miles of us without hearing people talking about our goods and prices. Better still—the strongest talkers are buyers. They've been here. They know the clothes they talk about. There's no exaggeration when people tell you they used to pay $10, $15 and $20 for Suits which they can now buy at the CANNON BALL CLOTHING COMPANY for $5, $8 and $10. Of course we've disturbed somebody's calculations in lowering prices so greatly. Can't help that. Buyers like it, and we are serving the people. Your attention is directed to

It is often the cause of much suffering and danger, that can be avoided by a full knowledge of the nature of the disease and the skillful application of a well-made Truss, suited to the particular kind or condition of the hernia, and occasionally arise when it requires quick, as well as careful and intelligent treatment. By hernia, or rupture, is generally meant the protrusion of a part of the intestines, or sometimes the membrane or both, through natural, unnatural or accidental openings in the internal muscular coverings, or walls of the abdomen, and forming a tumor under the skin, which may occur in any part of the body, except where covered with bone. A hernial tumor is generally visible, or can be distinguished by carefully feeling the part affected; sometimes a hernia exists and may even be in a strangulated condition without being visible. The symptoms alone indicating its existence. It is a fact of warm atmosphere, or climate, sickness, low diet, old age or anything weakening the system renders a person more liable to hernia and may be indirect causes, but the direct or immediate cause is generally found in severe muscular efforts, as in laborious occupation, lifting, jumping, coughing, sneezing, etc. We have the largest and most complete assortment of
